FOREWORD

Information is the lifeblood of an efficient democracy, helping voters to bring their valued opinions to office-holders, bringing new and innovative thoughts to public officials and facilitating the flow of ideas between branches of government.

The North Carolina Secretary of State's office is a central storage house for thousands of informational files. This Directory of State and County Officials of North Carolina is one of the most valuable publications produced annually by your state government because it gives you vital information about your public servants.

This Directory holds the names, addresses and phone numbers of virtually all state and county officials - elected and appointed - in North Carolina. Through its pages readers may find avenues of access to members of the General Assembly, county government, the judiciary, plus scores of executive boards and councils.

We hope you will find the information useful.
